Reasons for comment:

Comments: The Society welcomes the detailed and well presented application. The intention to bring the usability of the interior suitable for today's needs while retaining the interior detailing in so far as practical is encouraging. The alterations to the roof are acceptable. The changes to the rear yard would make the space a little more practical We have only a minor comment which concerns the somewhat strange connecting lobby on the second floor between the Master bedroom and its 'bathroom'. The access to either appears cramped especially when compared to the spaciousness elsewhere. For and on behalf of the Thorney Island Society, Tom Ball
